1.11. Contraindicaciones y efectos adversos

Contraindicaciones

Debido a la pérdida rápida de la resistencia a la tensión, Safil Quick no debe utilizarse en los casos en que sea necesario una aproximación de los bordes de la herida bajo tensión, o en aquellos casos en que se requiera que la sutura mantenga los bordes de la herida unidos durante largo plazo. El uso de Safil Quick está contraindicado en la sutura de tejidos cardiovasculares y neurológicos.

Efectos secundarios

Al igual que ocurre con todos los materiales de suturas, el contacto prolongado con soluciones ricas en sales, como la orina y la bilis, puede producir litiasis. Al igual que sucede con todos los implantes, Safil Quick puede afectar al curso de una infección ya existente.

1.12. Aplicación

Usar en función de las necesidades quirúrgicas.

1.13. Precauciones y advertencias

Advertencias

Safil Quick no debe ser reesterilizado. Los envases abiertos o dañados, deben ser desechados. Safil Quick debe conservarse a una temperatura inferior a 25°C, en condiciones de humedad baja y lejos de fuentes de calor directo. No usar después de la fecha de caducidad.

Precauciones

Los usuarios de Safil Quick deben tener experiencia en técnicas y procedimientos quirúrgicos en los que se usan suturas absorbibles, ya que el riesgo de dehiscencia de la herida es variable dependiendo del lugar de aplicación y del tipo de material usado. Las suturas cutáneas que permanecen en el lugar de aplicación durante más de 7 días pueden causar irritación local y deben cortarse o retirarse según convenga.

Hay que actuar con precaución cuando se usan suturas absorbibles en tejidos con poca vascularización, ya que puede producirse extrusión de la sutura y retraso de la absorción. Las suturas subcuticulares deben colocarse lo más profundamente posible para reducir el riesgo de eritema e induración asociado normalmente al proceso de absorción.

El uso de Safil Quick no está recomendado en los pacientes ancianos, desnutridos o debilitados, ni en los pacientes con enfermedades o trastornos que retrasen el proceso de cicatrización de las heridas.

Cuando se usa el material de sutura Safil Quick, hay que asegurarse de que los instrumentos quirúrgicos utilizados, como pinzas o portaagujas, no lo aplasten ni lo rozen.

La seguridad en el nudo adecuada requiere la realización de la técnica quirúrgica tradicional del nudo cuadrado usando lazadas planas, y añadiendo lazadas adicionales si así lo indican las circunstancias de la intervención quirúrgica y la experiencia del cirujano.

Cuando se usan agujas quirúrgicas hay que tomar precauciones para evitar dañarlas. Hay que sujetar la aguja en una zona situada entre un tercio (1/3) y la mitad (1/2) de la distancia existente entre el ojal (zona de unión hilo-aguja) y la punta. Sujetar la aguja en la zona de la punta puede afectar negativamente a la penetración y provocar que se rompa la aguja. Sujetar la aguja en la zona de la unión hilo-aguja puede provocar que la aguja se doble o se rompa.

Modificar la forma de las agujas puede provocar que las agujas pierdan resistencia y se doblen o se rompan más fácilmente. Cuando se usan agujas quirúrgicas, los usuarios deben evitar causar daños sin querer por pinchazos de la aguja. Las agujas utilizadas deben desecharse y tirarse a contenedores "de materiales afilados".

Instrucciones de uso

Safil® Quick

Descripción

Safil® Quick es un material de sutura sintético, absorbible, estéril compuesto por ácido poliglicólico. Debido a que está compuesto por un polímero de un peso molecular más bajo que el que se usa en el Safil® normal, Safil® Quick aporta una apropiada rápida disminución de pérdida de tensión. Las suturas Safil® Quick se suministran sin teñir, en su color beige natural. Las suturas trenzadas están tratadas con una impregnación sintética degradable por hidrólisis, de gliconato para que puedan deslizarse fácilmente y evitar el efecto sierra en los tejidos. La resistencia a la tracción en el nudo de la sutura Safil® Quick cumple los requisitos de la USP para las suturas de colágeno y también los requisitos de la Farmacopea Europea para "Chorda Resorbilis Sterilis" (excepto en algunos casos ocasionales de determinados calibres, cuyo diámetro es algo mayor del normal).

Episio-Set consiste en tres combinaciones hilo-aguja de Safil® Quick envasadas en el mismo sobre, indicado para el cierre de episiotomías.

Indicaciones

Safil® Quick está indicado en la aproximación de tejidos blandos sólo en aquellos casos en que se requiera un soporte de la herida a corto plazo y en el que el uso de una sutura de absorción rápida sea beneficioso. Debido a su perfil de absorción, las indicaciones más importantes de Safil® Quick son el cierre de piel, especialmente en cirugía pediátrica, cierre de episiotomías, circuncisiones, cierres de la mucosa oral y suturas de conjuntiva en cirugía oftálmica.

Modo de acción

El material de sutura se usa principalmente para aproximar y mantener unidos los bordes de una herida, para que se realice la cicatrización.

Cuando se usan las suturas Safil® Quick se puede producir una reacción inflamatoria leve, que es una reacción endógena típica a cuerpos extraños. Con el paso del tiempo, el tejido conjuntivo fibroso encapsula el material de la sutura.

Safil® Quick se metaboliza mediante hidrólisis a ácido glicólico sin causar ningún cambio permanente en la zona de la herida. La absorción empieza en forma de disminución de la resistencia a la tensión seguido de una pérdida de masa. Estudios sobre la aplicación subcutánea e intramuscular de Safil® Quick demuestran que 5 días post implantación la resistencia a la tensión es aproximadamente el 50% de la inicial y que a los 10 - 14 días post implantación la resistencia a la tensión es prácticamente nula. La mayor parte de la absorción de la masa de la sutura Safil® Quick tiene lugar aproximadamente 42 días después de su aplicación.

Contraindicaciones

Debido a la pérdida rápida de la resistencia a la tensión, Safil® Quick no debe utilizarse en los casos en que sea necesario una aproximación de los bordes de la herida bajo tensión, o en aquellos casos en que se requiera que la sutura mantenga los bordes de la herida unidos durante largo plazo. El uso de Safil® Quick está contraindicado en la sutura de tejidos cardiovasculares y neurológicos.

Advertencia

Safil® Quick no debe ser reesterilizado. Los envases abiertos o dañados, deben ser desechados. Safil® Quick debe conservarse a una temperatura inferior a 25°C, en condiciones de humedad baja y lejos de fuentes de calor directo. No usar después de la fecha de caducidad.

Nota / Precauciones

Los usuarios de Safil® Quick deben tener experiencia en técnicas y procedimientos quirúrgicos en los que se usan suturas absorbibles, ya que el riesgo de dehiscencia de la herida es variable dependiendo del lugar de aplicación y del tipo de material usado. Las suturas cutáneas que permanecen en el lugar de aplicación durante más de 7 días pueden causar irritación local y deben cortarse o retirarse según convenga. Hay que actuar con precaución cuando se usan suturas absorbibles en tejidos con poca vascularización, ya que puede producirse extrusión de la sutura y retraso de la absorción. Las suturas subcuticulares deben colocarse lo más profundamente posible para reducir el riesgo de eritema e induración asociado normalmente al proceso de absorción.

El uso de Safil® Quick no está recomendado en los pacientes ancianos, desnutridos o debilitados, ni en los pacientes con enfermedades o trastornos que retrasen el proceso de cicatrización de las heridas.

Cuando se usa el material de sutura Safil® Quick, hay que asegurarse de que los instrumentos quirúrgicos utilizados, como pinzas o portaagujas, no lo aplasten ni lo rozen. La seguridad en el nudo adecuada requiere la realización de la técnica quirúrgica tradicional del nudo cuadrado usando lazadas planas, y añadiendo lazadas adicionales si así lo indican las circunstancias de la intervención quirúrgica y la experiencia del cirujano.

Cuando se usan agujas quirúrgicas hay que tomar precauciones para evitar dañarlas. Hay que sujetar la aguja en una zona situada entre un tercio (1/3) y la mitad (1/2) de la distancia existente entre el ojal (zona de unión hilo-aguja) y la punta. Sujetar la aguja en la zona de la punta puede afectar negativamente a la penetración y provocar que se rompa la aguja. Sujetar la aguja en la zona de la unión hilo-aguja puede provocar que la aguja se doble o se rompa. Modificar la forma de las agujas puede provocar que las agujas pierdan resistencia y se doblen o se rompan más fácilmente. Cuando se usan agujas quirúrgicas, los usuarios deben evitar causar daños sin querer por pinchazos de la aguja. Las agujas utilizadas deben desecharse y tirarse a contenedores "de materiales afilados".

Efectos secundarios

Al igual que ocurre con todos los materiales de suturas, el contacto prolongado con soluciones ricas en sales, como la orina y la bilis, puede producir litiasis. Al igual que sucede con todos los implantes, Safil® Quick puede afectar al curso de una infección ya existente.

Aplicaciones

Usar en función de las necesidades quirúrgicas.

Presentaciones

Las suturas Safil® Quick están disponibles sin teñir, en su color beige natural en los calibres metric 5 (USP 2) hasta el calibre metric 0,5 (USP 7-0) montados con aguja o en hebras sin aguja, en cajas de 12, 24 ó 36 unidades.
