Precaución

5735

Manipule el equipo con cuidado al trasladarlo.

Desconecte el cable de alimentación y luego los cables de señal. Manipular el equipo con los cables colocados puede ser peligroso y puede resultar en daños al equipo o al personal.

Al manipular la unidad, agarre la parte inferior del equipo firmemente con ambas manos asegurándose de que el panel mire hacia afuera antes de levantar. Dejar caer el equipo puede resultar en daños al equipo y/o al personal.

No bloquee los orificios de ventilación del equipo. No coloque objetos delante de los orificios de ventilación. No instale el equipo en espacios reducidos cerrados. No utilice el equipo ubicado de manera diferente a la prevista en el manual. Obstruir los orificios de ventilación reduce el flujo de aire y puede resultar en incendio, shock eléctrico o daños en el equipo.

No toque el enchufe del equipo con las manos húmedas. Esto puede resultar en shock eléctrico.

Limpie periódicamente el enchufe. La acumulación de polvo o aceite en el enchufe puede resultar en incendios. Desconecte el enchufe antes de limpiarlo.

Si se prevé no utilizar el equipo por un período prolongado, desconecte el cable de alimentación del tomacorriente luego de apagar el equipo.

Cuando el monitor este frío y se instale en un recinto donde la temperatura se eleva rápidamente, se puede producir condensación dentro del monitor. En ese caso, no encienda el equipo y espere a que la condensación desaparezca, de lo contrario se pueden producir daños en el equipo.

Con el objetivo de aumentar la vida útil del monitor mantenga la luminosidad lo más baja posible, utilizando el monitor con el menor brillo posible.

La pantalla puede tener pixeles defectuosos. Estos aparecerán como pequeñas áreas brillantes u oscuras. Esta es una característica propia del panel LCD y no del equipo en sí.

No aprete la pantalla sus bordes, esto puede generar daños en la misma. Tampoco raye o presiones la pantalla con objetos filosos o cepillos, esto puede generar rayones en el panel.

3.8. Si un producto médico está destinado a reutilizarse, los datos sobre los procedimientos apropiados para la reutilización, incluida la limpieza, desinfección, el acondicionamiento y, en su caso, el método de esterilización si el producto debe ser re esterilizado, así como cualquier limitación respecto al número posible de reutilizaciones.

Se recomienda la limpieza periódica del equipo de acuerdo a lo indicado en el manual de usuario, esto prolongará su vida útil.

NOTA: nunca utilice thinner, benceno, limpiadores abrasivos u otros solventes fuertes, estos productos pueden causar daños al panel LCD o al gabinete.

Gabinete:

Para eliminar las manchas, limpie el gabinete con un paño suave, ligeramente humedecido con un detergente suave. No pulverizar cera o limpiador directamente en el gabinete.

Pantalla:

La superficie del LCD se puede limpiar con un paño suave, tal como algodón o papel para lentes. Si es necesario, manchas difíciles pueden eliminarse humedeciendo parte de un paño con agua para mejorar su poder de limpieza.
